THE TIMES ILLUSTRATED.

Physicians and Their Drugs.

The active competition for a living that the physician in New York has to encounter has resulted in a curious method for stimulating trade. There are doctors in this city, graduates in law and no doubt in many cases men of ability, who remit all fees for consultation, relying on the profits they obtain from the medicines they prescribe for encumbrance. Certain standard prescriptions they have put up in quantities, and these they sell directly to the patient. Where a prescription has to be compounded the patient is sent to a certain drug store, at which the doctor has an arrangement for his commissions.

Between these two devices the practitioner really captures a reasonable fee, and he gets it, moreover, in cash, where he otherwise might have to give credit, with a strong show of loss, for though patients will not dream of demanding credit for medicines, they make very small bones about leaving the doctor's bill unpaid once he has permitted them to run it up.—New York Cor. Pittsburgh Bulletin.

Peculiar Pronunciation.

Landor always pronounced yellow as yaller. We have heard Mr. A. R. Wallace, the eminent naturalist, during the course of a lecture, repeatedly sound it thus, a mode of pronunciation said, indeed, to be traditional in many good old English families, and which includes the substitution of laylock for lilac, Room for Rome, gold for gold, and wonderfull for wonderful.

A homely old rural dean, long since dead, used always, like Sam Weller, to leave out the "w" in woman, and his "Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?" was apt to mar the solemnity of a marriage service.—London Tit-Bits.

Easter Scene in Athens.

For some time before Easter the city of Athens wears a picturesque aspect. This is due in great part to the number of shepherds who, with their flocks, have come down from the mountains and are camped in every available open space, engaged in selling their lambs. There is no family so poor as not to break the long Lenten fast with an Easter lamb, the value of which is about a dollar, and a veritable massacre of the innocents is going on.—"Customs and Lore of Modern Greece."

Electric Bell Call.

One of the patents for electrical contrivances issued from the patent office is for an automatic guest call for use in hotels. It consists of a combination of a clock connected through a series of relays and contacts with an ammonia bell system. A guest wishing a call at a certain time has his bell connected to this time strip on the clock circuit; at the designated hour the bell in his room rings for a certain period, or until he stops it.—New York World.

Gas Fitting.

Our dear little daughter was terribly sick. Her bowels were bloated as hard as a brick. We feared she would die. Till we happened to try Pierces Pellets—they cured her, remarkably quick. Never be without Pierces Pellets in the house. They are gentle and effective in action and give immediate relief in cases of indigestion, biliousness and constipation. They do their work thoroughly and leave no bad effects. Small, cheap, easiest to take. One a dose. Best Liver Pill made.

WHY EXCEPT SILVER?

The Wall street organs here in Nevada, unable to give a reason, are driven to their wits' end and to find a pretext for opposing the free coinage movement. While not only countenancing but encouraging hostility to the principal product of the State they refer to the sheep industry as one which should keep the State in the Republican ranks whatever the attitude of the party may be toward silver. They either forget or purposely overlook the fact that the silver men in organizing are but following the example of those engaged in other industries. In the East they have tariff leagues, whose members are pledged to do all in their power to keep up the duty on certain articles regardless of its effect on other industries. The iron and steel makers have organizations for protection and, as was shown in the Ohio campaign last fall, they contributed liberally not alone in Ohio but in Pennsylvania to a fund to elect McKinley. Senators Edmunds and Morrill of Vermont refused to vote for the McKinley bill after it was amended by placing sugar on the free list until the House Committee on Ways and Means inserted the bounty clause of two cents per pound. Nearly every State east of the Mississippi has some industry that is protected, too often for the benefit of a few, and yet the representations of each and all of those States, for some cause, make war against a Nevada product and contend that legislation to prevent the Government from robbing the silver miner is inimical to the best interests of the country.

Here in Nevada the wool growers have set the mine owners a good example. They organized for protection and generally voted for those who promised them best results. It was not unusual four years ago to hear Jefferson Davis, Brown, Sterling Price Jones and Beuregard Robinson, who were about to cast their first votes, shout for Harrison because their fathers owned sheep, and Cleveland, instead of leaving the tariff to Congress where it properly belonged, made a pettifogging plea for free wool. Knowing all these facts why do the tariff men and free traders make an exception of silver? Have not the bullion producers the same right to organize and vote for their interests as the shoemakers of Massachusetts, the pottery makers of New Jersey, the glass blowers, coal and iron men of Pennsylvania, the fishermen of Maine, and tin plate manufacturers of no where? Everyting the bullion producers use in their business is taxed and taxed high for the benefit of somebody, and unless the people who are interested in free coinage have no right that the usurers and monopolists of the East are bound to respect, why should they be maligned, misrepresented and their motives misconstrued by the Wall street organs for pledging themselves to vote for no man and to uphold no party that is not in favor of restoring silver to its old standard?

THE MINNEAPOLIS CONVENTION.

The Republican National Convention, which is to be held at Minneapolis next week, will be composed of 88 delegates. It will require 500 votes to nominate a candidate for President or to adopt a platform. The New York Herald, to make light the dark places, sent every delegate at large to the Republican Convention a telegram asking how the delegation stands for choice of President, and whether in favor of restricted or unrestricted coinage or high or low tariff?

The Herald received replies which show that Harrison will have 366 delegates, Blaine 265, Alger 28 and McKinley 1, leaving in the doubtful list 238 delegates, from which Harrison must get 84 votes to Blaine 185 to secure the nomination.

On the question of unrestricted coinage of silver only 73 are in favor of free coinage, while 825 are against it. On the tariff question there is practical unanimity, all being in favor of high tariff.

The foregoing statements were not volunteered, but were made in answer to the inquiries as to the probable cause of Blaine's failure to attend what is erroneously supposed to have been a regularly called meeting of the cabinet.

Senate Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Sherman went on to defend the financial action of the Republican party and his own part in it. He said the National Banks would soon pass away, not because they were not the best banks in the world, but because United States bonds on which they rested would be paid off. He insisted the system fully justified itself. He said that the discontinuation of the coining of the silver dollar in 1873 and the substitution of the trade dollar was done upon the representation of California and other silver States who wanted to transport silver to China. The suspension of silver coinage by the Latin Union and the increase of production had given great blows to silver. Sherman then went on to denounce the bill under consideration as wrong in principle, in detail and in every respect a fraud on the creditor. The very threat of free coinage of silver, he said, was doing more than anything else to disturb the business interests of the country. At this point the Chairman yielded to a motion to adjourn.

Murphy vs. Murphy.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—Johnnie Murphy of Boston and Billy Murphy of Australia, the featherweights, met at the Pacific Athletic Club to-night. They had fought twenty hard rounds at 11 o'clock. The Australian was in a bad way several times during the earlier rounds. The Bostonian was very cool and jabbed his man repeatedly. Billy was the heavier biter and had the most advantage in height and reach, but Johnnie fought cleverly. From the 18th to the 20th rounds, however, the Boston man received some severe punishment, but responded bravely.

At the end of the 40th round the referee decided the fight no contest and it will be finished to-morrow night.

Johnstown Flood Anniversary.

JOHNSON, Pa., May 31.—To-day is the third anniversary of the Johnstown flood. It was celebrated by unveiling a monument, Governor Pattison presiding, with elaborate ceremonies.

NATURALIZATION REFORM.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Senator Hiscok to-day presented a memorial signed by Elijah Root, Horace Porter Joseph M. Drexel, Cornelius Bliss and others, without regard to political affiliations, asking that a Committee be appointed to inquire into the system of naturalization in New York City to the end that remedial legislation be devised and enacted with reference thereto. They set forth that immigration records show in 1891 over 200,000 foreigners came to this country from Europe but small portions of whom can either read, write or speak the English language and are wholly ignorant of our laws and principles of our Government, that there seems no reason to believe that immediately prior to the last election in New York State, naturalization was accompanied by great irregularities and extensive frauds. In a single court of New York during the first twenty days of October nearly 7,000 were naturalized, of which about 6,000 were by one judge. It is obvious that a system of naturalization which can produce results with such startling rapidity, must be defective and there is reason to believe the results made possible by wholesale perjury, that these evil practices are constantly adding a most undesirable element to our community by the surrender of the material part of our power of self-government to men who really are aliens, ignorant and wholly unfit to govern themselves or us.

Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The Cabinet meeting to-day was attended by all the members except Secretaries Blaine, Elkins and Foster. The two last named are out of the city. At the State Department it was said that Blaine's failure to attend was probably due to the fact that he was not at the department with matters accumulated during his visit to New York. At the White House no significance whatever was attached to his absence for the stated reason that it was not generally known that the President had returned to the city, and also because it was not known there would be a meeting. It is said further that there was no formal meeting, and it is also said the reason no Cabinet meeting was called was that the President was fatigued after his trip to Rochester, and had no important matters to present for consideration.

The foregoing statements were not volunteered, but were made in answer to the inquiries as to the probable cause of Blaine's failure to attend what is erroneously supposed to have been a regularly called meeting of the cabinet.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Sherman went on to defend the financial action of the Republican party and his own part in it. JOHNSON, Pa., May 31.—To-day is the third anniversary of the Johnstown flood. It was celebrated by unveiling a monument, Governor Pattison presiding, with elaborate ceremonies.

House Proceedings

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Little progress was made with the Post Office Appropriation bill for the free delivery clause gave rise to a good deal of discussion and the vote on the motion to increase the appropriation for the purpose disclosed less than a majority present. On motion of Henderson of North Carolina a resolution was adopted revoking all leaves of absence except on account of sickness, and directing the Sergeant at Arms to telegraph to absent members that attendance was necessary for the transaction of business. Adjourned.

Bodies Recovered.

BAKERSFIELD, May 31.—The body of Charles E. Jewett who was drowned yesterday in attempting to rescue the two Greenville boys in Kern river was found last night lodged in the roots of a tree on an island two miles below the mouth of the canyon. His head was mashed into a jelly and his body terribly bruised and an arm and leg was broken. Over a hundred people are still out searching along the river for the remains of the two boys but thus far not a trace of them has been found.

A New York Suicide.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Miss Lillian Norfolk, one of the handsomest, most prominent and wealthiest young ladies of Long Island was found by her maid to-day in a bath tub filled with water, her hair wound twice about her throat and fastened. She strangled herself with her own hair. Various causes are assigned for the deed, prominent among which is disappointment in love.

School Children on a Lark.

OMAHA, May 31.—Eighteen pupils of the Graduating School in Genoa, Neb., ran away Saturday night and started for their homes in Arizona on foot. They were interrupted at Fullerton, Neb., after having made a night's march of twenty miles.

Contested Seat.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The House Committee on Elections to-day decided by a strictly party vote to favor the Democratic sitting member in the contested case of McDuffie vs. Turpin of Alabama.

Presbyterian Assembly Adjourned.

PORTLAND, May 31.—The Presbyterian General Assembly finished its business to-day and adjourned sine die.

LIZARDS IN SINGAPORE.

There are lizards in Singapore—large, scurrying, suddenly dropping things, of all sorts of colors. You see them on the walls of your hotel, in the sunshine, and admit them. At evening, sitting with fan and iced drinks, one suddenly falls on you, and it is colder than your toddy. How can any organism breed in this scorching spot so cold?

You go to bed, you and your wife. Each has a canopy couch, rods remote from the other, for sleeping apartments are ample. You stretch out on a light mattress over which is one sheet. For upper covering pull up the darkness and draw the mosquito nets. There is no need of a sheet over you any more than there is for a sheet over your toddy.

The night orchestra, strange sounds of tropical insects and trees and arms outside, finally lulls you asleep. Presently—plunk! and then a scampering of some nimble clawed thing on the floor near your bed. My lady, over at the other side of the vast waste of chamber-squeals, "A mouse!"

You assure her that it couldn't be mice. "Mice don't fall from the ceiling like a lump of mud. It's only the lizards!" This cheerful information elicits no groan. With mice out of the question, what would not be brave? There is a hush in the distant couch, a silence too still for sleep. You know your partner lies over yonder listening hard for more lizards. Presently there are more little dull thuds. The lizards seem to be falling in several places. They seem to be chasing each other or some venomous prey or possibly making away with your shoes.

When one is fagged out with sightseeing, to lie awake in inky darkness in the midst of a lizard carnival is a little hard on the nerves. Ah, something is pulling at the canopy of your bed, as if a young kitten were trying to climb it!

There comes a very subdued voice from the distant corner: "This is awful. Won't you get up and strike a light?"

"And step on the blooming cold beasts with my bare feet! You try it; you're nearer the matches than I!"

"But we can't lie here like this. Call somebody!"

And one of the omnipresent "boys," who seems to have been on guard at the threshold, comes softly in: "The lizards will not hurt you, lady. They catch the mosquitoes and spiders. Sometimes they get under the nets on the bed; but don't you mind." Reassuring, very; but madame was ready for one tropic dawn hours before it came.—Buffalo Express.

"Yes," replied Burton, "it's left for parts unknown."—Kate Field's Washington.

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me buy theirs instead of Hood's; he told me that's could last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other."

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal of dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it." Mrs. ELLA A. GOFF, 61 Terrace Street, Boston.

Southern Pacific Surveyors are working their way easterly from Copperopolis. It is believed that this is an effort to secure the Big Tree route and head off the Salt Lake Railroad.

"Every citizen will vote his honest sentiment this fall," says the Austin Advocate. "The man who stands highest in the estimation of his neighbors will be chosen to public position."

Attention is directed to the ad. of H. Leter. He has removed to the Graft building, which he has fitted up so that it is as fine a tailoring establishment as there is in the State. If you are in need of a fine suit of clothes call and examine Mr. Leter's fine stock of goods.

THE NEW RAILROAD.

The Prospect of Its Construction Very Encouraging.

The Chronicle says the San Francisco and Great Salt Lake Railroad seems to be an assured fact. The affairs of the company are rapidly assuming a degree of substantiality that makes the outlook for a new overland route very encouraging. It seems that the projectors of the enterprise did not receive their ideas by sudden inspiration, but that their plans have been under consideration for some months. The gentlemen interested in the new road of the opinion that the road will pay from the beginning and expect that the support of the public will be given them from the fact that the new line will be competing one and will quite reduce the rates to and from California points.

Very little can be done at this end of the line until the return of Mr. Cleveland from Salt Lake City, where he is at present attending to the interests of the company in Utah. It is the intention to secure aid in Utah to build the line in that Territory, and also to interest capitalists in Nevada in the portion of the road which will be built through the Sagebrush State.

Messrs. Hayward, Mayer, Babcock Steele and Preston, who have fathered the enterprise in California, are all men of means and public spirit. They announce that they can raise all the money for the building of the line among themselves and other California capitalists who will willingly help the enterprise. The members of the company decided, when the scheme was first under consideration, to build the line themselves and not to invite any trust company to lend them aid. The $30,000 that has been expended in surveys this Spring is considered a wise investment, for the engineers have demonstrated that a new line can be built over the range at a far less cost than was expected. The route has not been definitely decided upon.

The gossip which is always heard on the streets after news like this is published, has connected the California Midland with the scheme, but there is no reason to believe that the two projects have any relationship. The Midland is a coast road, and no surveys made under the direction of Midland engineers have had an Eastern bearing. It is more than probable that the Utah and Nevada Air Lines Company and the schemers interested in the new overland road have an understanding.

If the road goes into Salt Lake City without touching Ogden it will have to enter the Great Salt Lake Valley fully thirty miles south of the city. The route north will probably be very near to the Denver and Rio Grande Western. If the entrance into the valley is made from the south it will be near Terrace or close to the Central Pacific. Unless some new mountain pass has been discovered that engineers have failed for thirty years to find, there can be no direct entrance to the city from the West.

The State of Nevada will probably lend substantial aid to the company. The Legislature a year ago offered a big bonus to any corporation that would build a railroad through certain named counties. While the plans of this company cannot allow them to take in those southern counties, they hope to obtain the favor of the State in some other way that will aid them just as well.

The date of the next meeting of the stockholders has not been decided upon, but it is to be in the near future. In the meantime the surveys will be pushed and the work of securing rights of way will be in the hands of competent men.

A FARM HOUSE BURNED.

An Inmate Aroused from His Slumbers With Difficulty.

Last Monday the dwelling house of Widow Steele, occupied by E. A. Moore, situated about two miles east of town, was buried to the ground with all its contents. Mr. Moore and daughter left home in the morning for Reno and there was no fire in any of the stoves when they left the house.

About 10 a. m. Mr. Kiely, Mr. Laub and Mr. Steele, neighbors, discovered that the building was on fire and ran to the house, as did also Robert Steele's folks. The fire had attained such headway that they could do nothing to save the building, and succeeded in getting only a few articles of furniture out of the house. Ed. Allen, a milker employed by W. H. Gould, was in the house asleep and was aroused with difficulty, as he had been at work early in the morning. Had it not been for the neighbors Mr. Allen would doubtless have been burned to death, as he slept heavily.

The loss is estimated at about $2,000, of which $500 was personal property belonging to Mr. Moore. The house had been insured until quite recently. Mr. Moore and his daughter lost all their clothing and household effects and about one hundred bee hives.

How Long?

Miss Lillian Hall of Sulphur Springs, Montana, has been engaged to teach the Junior Department of the Reno High School, the position lately held by Miss Mabel French.—Carson News.

Montana seems to be running opposition to California in our school affairs. Nevada teachers are turned out in the cold to make room for relatives and favorites from other States. How long will the people of Nevada submit to this insult to her teachers?

"It was real mean in the Enterprise and the Gazette to pretend to be speaking for Frank Newlands when they were fighting the silver clubs," remarked a hitherto prominent Republican and friend of Mr. Newlands on the street yesterday.

Beautiful Hands!

THE MAN IN THE CAB.

A VIEW AT CLOSE RANGE OF THE MEN WHO GUIDE TRAINS.

The Cab—What It Means to the American Engineer, Though His English Brother Rides in the Open Air—The Whistle and Its Individuality.

The average American engineer and his fireman would think themselves very ill used if an order were issued for the abolition of the cab—that friendly retreat from inclement weather that is now considered an absolute necessity on all engines. And yet in civilized England, on a majority of the railroads, the engines in use are built minus the cab, thus forcing the operators to work without shelter in all kinds of weather. It sounds inhuman, and yet in retaliation the railroad companies ask whether the soldier should carry an umbrella when it rains or the sailor be allowed to work under an awning? The claim is that the railroad employees become inured to severe weather and the absence of covering keeps them alert, so that the possibility of danger from inattention to duty is reduced to a minimum. Subtile argument, perhaps, but hardly tenable, if this practice was adopted on some of our western roads where the temperature ranges from 20 to 50 degrees below zero, how many engineers would live to carry their trains from one station to the next?

The unpardonable sin in an engineer is to let the water get out of the boiler of the engine in his charge. No matter what excuse he may offer, if he lives to make his report in turn, his dismissal will be permanent, for by this action he has proved himself incompetent and unworthy of future responsibilities. It is better for an engineer that he had never been born when he reaches this stage of self torture. Fortunately such cases are rare. The man on all well conducted railroads must have shown himself to be trusty and true before he is given charge of an engine, and the rigid inspection to which he is subjected before an engagement is a guarantee of future conduct.

One weakness nearly every engineer has, and that is a penchant for "doctoring" the steam whistle on his pet engine. Every boy in a country town familiarizes himself at an early age with the different "toots" that by day and night wail through the unhappy village. He can detect No. 4's whistle when the train is five miles distant, and in like manner the approach of Nos. 1 and 2 are heralded to his keen ear. Of course all whistles are alike when they leave the shops, but the engineer fills in the sounding bell with a piece of turned wood that fits snug and changes the tone to a short, sharp scream or an angry, impatient howl, as his fancy may dictate.

The close observer may lie snugly in his bed and yet be able to detect the passing of either a freight or passenger train. The engine on the former announces its approach by emitting a sharp, shrill scream that is soul piercing enough to waken the dead, while the passenger engine, with due respect to the living freight it carries, sounds a long, deep warning note that does not bring the occupant of a berth to his feet "all standing" ready to curse the company in general terms and the engineer in particular ones for such an act of folly and inconsiderateness. On the freight train sharp, shrill scream is essential, for it notifies the brakemen, who are perhaps forty cars in the rear of the engine and separated from the occupants of the cab by many ways of ear piercing sound, just what work is required at their hands.

This whistle is to them what the cry of the call boy on the Thames steamboat used to be to the engineer down below before the advent of electric bells. "Ease her!" the captain would remark in his ordinary tone of conversation to the small boy that followed him like a shadow, and "Ease her!" the youngster would scream in his sharp, shrill staccato down the companionway. "Stop 'er!" "Turn 'er astern!" "Go ahead!" would perhaps follow in rapid succession, and in this decidedly crude fashion the London steamboat captains did their steering by proxy only a dozen years ago. One wonders what has become of those call boys. Perhaps they spend their hours in spinning yarns to the younger cockneys of the past glories of steamboating in much the same manner that our dethroned stage drivers of the west now regale the tenderfoot with glimpses of bygone acts of heroism and feats of impossible horsemanship. This is somewhat of a digression from the topic under discussion, but perhaps the reader will excuse its insertion. One thought naturally suggested the other.

As a class engineers are usually good natured, kind hearted, though a bit rough; dear thinkers, due to their fixed habits of attention and long hours of enforced silence, and of good morals.

An engineer who drinks cannot hope to hold his position long, for no master mechanic will tolerate confirmed tipping in a subordinate whose duties are responsible as those of an engineer.

He must be abstinent, prompt at his post of duty, and ever vigilant if he hopes to maintain his position. His hands may be black and his face grimy, but that his heart is all right was evidenced not long ago in a railroad terminus on the Pacific coast when the engine, puffing and laboring from its dizzy ride over mountain passes and along dangerous precipices, was approached by a golden haired miss of six, who patted one of the huge driving wheels caressingly and hissing, "You dear, big black thing, how I love you for bringing my sweet mamma and papa home to me from across those horrid mountains and you too," she exclaimed, lifting her pretty face to the black bearded engineer, who had been watching her from his cab. The tear that sprang instantly to his eye was not an evidence of weakness, but of a warm, impetuous heart, and the father of the little girl that occasioned this touch of human nature furtively reached for his handkerchief just as the engineer drew his grimy sleeve across his sooty face.—Chicago Herald.

"German Syrup"

We have selected two or three lines from letters freshly received from parents who have given German Syrup to their children in the emergencies of Croup. You will credit these, because they come from good, substantial people, happy in finding what so many families lack—a medicine containing no evil drug, which mother can administer with confidence to the little ones in their most critical hours, safe and sure that it will carry them through.

ED. L. WILSON, Mrs. Jas. W. KIRK, Alma, Mo. Give it Daughters' College, troubled with Croup and never saw any in attacks of Croup preparation act like with my little daughter. It is simply miraculous, and find it with envy.

Fully one-half of our customers are mothers who use Boschee's German Syrup among their children. A medicine to be successful with the little folks must be a treatment for the sudden and terrible foes of childhood, whooping cough, croup, diphtheria and the dangerous inflammations of delicate throats and lungs. ☺

Making Them Young.

There once lived in the City of Mexico a Frenchman known as Otavito (little Octave), whose rogueries kept the town in a ferment. At one time he claimed to have discovered a specific for the rejuvenescence of women, and by means of sensational advertising he succeeded in gathering a clientele of forty or fifty ancient dames, who were assembled, on a certain day, in a long sala, tricked out with astrological symbols, crucibles, alembics and all the paraphernalia of charlatany. The conjurer presented himself before the ladies and addressed them in flamboyant language, ending as follows: "And now, seoras of my soul, it is needful that the mystic ceremonies before us be opened by the oldest among you."

Then, addressing her whose appearance seemed to indicate priority, he asked her age. "Thirty-seven years, senior," simpered the beldame, who was at least in the seventh decade. "And you, senior?" "Thirty-six." And so on, until he had got them down to a declared age of twenty years, with a maximum of thirty-seven. "Well, ladies dear, you perceive that without further proceedings the miracle is accomplished," said Otavito, "for the least gallant of men could not call her aught but young whose years are but thirty-seven—and you see for yourselves that is the age of the oldest among you!"—San Francisco Argonaut.
